

PREACHING PASTORS RETREAT

Fall, October 1-3, 2018

Designed as a chance for pastors to improve upon their preaching style and technique, this retreat covers a number of topics including: contextual preaching, theology of preaching, homiletic theory, and biblical study and interpretation.

Keynote Speaker: Marcia McFee

Ancient Truths, Fresh Expressions: Preaching Good News in Hard Times

For two decades Dr. Marcia McFee has been a renowned worship leader and designer of worship for regional and national gatherings, including the UMC General Conference and the UCC General Synod. She has taught at 11 seminaries. But her main call to ministry is creating interactive learning environments where local church staff and volunteers of any denomination can experience ways to create “deep soul” worship that honors our traditions while offering the message through 21st century mediums. She is the creator and visionary of Worship Design Studio (www.worshipdesignstudio.com), an online experience of education, inspiration, coaching and a design application.

Although the conference is rooted in Presbyterian (USA) theology and pedagogy, the program is open to qualified pastors from any Christian faith tradition.
