

REV. CARMEN MASON BROWN

MOTHER & DAUGHTERS,
SISTERS TO SISTERS

Honest And Healing Conversations We Long To Have With One Another.

The first theme explores the wonderful and complex relationships between Mothers and daughters and sister to sister, sister-friends to sister friends, including sister's who don't know each other well or may be estranged. The second theme is the critical work of racial, cultural and social location in our healing. How might we commit ourselves to building deeper understanding and reconciliation between one another, which is so desperately needed in these days and times? Women have always had a critical role in this regard. Many biblical stories provide explicit moving stories of women's courageous and complex relationships, who with God's guidance helped women respond in faith, compassion, and truth.

Let's discover how these two themes intersect, together. There are several biblical stories that show these relationships of alliances, friendships, conflicts, forgiveness, loyalty, and love. Find out more at westminsterwood.org
