

About Alexander Trio

Members of the well renowned Alexander Trio are all classically-trained, professional musicians who live and perform in the San Francisco Bay Area. Founded by pianist and Steinway Artist, Gerri Alexander, she recognized the amazing talents of cellist, Patricia Meyer and violinist, Nori Tagawa and formed this exciting piano trio.

The joy each artist takes in their musical training, history and experience flows naturally at each of their events and people always relish in an atmosphere of celebration.

About the Musicians . . .

Nori Tagawa, Violinist

A member of the Winchester Symphony and past concertmaster with the Mission Chamber Orchestra and Lyric Theatre, Mr. Tagawa performs extensively with chamber music ensembles in the Bay Area. He has studied with Dr. Lauren Jakey and Dale King, in addition to classes with Roy Malan, Sergiu Luca, and Frano Gulli. Mr. Tagawa coaches string players and teaches privately.

Patricia Meyer, Cellist

Graduated from the University of Washington and currently resides in Morgan Hill. She has studied with Boris Blinder of the San Francisco Symphony and Misha Schneider of the Budapest Quartet. She has previously performed with the San Jose Symphony and also performs with music ensembles in the Bay Area.

Gerri Alexander, Pianist

Graduated from Indiana University. She has studied at Carnegie Mellon University and Duquesne University also with Madame Elsa Stockman of the Liszt Conservatory. On the West Coast, she has coached with Adolph Baller at Stanford University and Julian White at Berkeley. Ms. Alexander performs with chamber trios as well as duo and solo performances. She maintains a private teaching studio in the Bay.
